DELAY HALTS HARBOR PROJECT

BAY SHORE PLANS ARE STILL HELD ON COAST

Colonel Rees Expects to Send Within Two Weeks to Washington Report Asked in 1912

ALBERS BROTHERS ARE GIVEN LEASE

Congressional Scrutiny of Proposals of Local Benefit to Be Finally Made Possible by Plan

THE request for federal aid in the development of the western waterfront, made by the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, has brought to light the fact that Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas H. Rees of the Board of Harbor Engineers has not as yet transmitted to the rivers and harbors board of United States Army Engineers at Washington, D. C., his preliminary plans for the enlarged Oakland harbor project. The plans were approved by the legislative and commercial bodies of the east bay cities in November, 1913.

Colonel Rees stated today that he expects to transmit the Oakland harbor plan to Washington in about two weeks, and that the Berkeley plans were started on their way eastward two weeks ago. He explained that he did not consider that there was any urgent need for haste in the matter.

According to experts who have investigated the necessities of the Oakland harbor situation, it is essential that Oakland should receive federal aid in developing the western waterfront. The United States government has aided numerous municipalities in this way, and has been engaged for many years in work on Oakland's inner harbor in dredging the channel of the estuary and the tidal basin.

It is urged that the Key Route basin and western waterfront should receive immediate attention. The city is about to lease to the Albers Milling Company land on the Key Route basin, and other concerns are desirous of being given privileges there. The Southern Pacific Company must remove long wharf and pier from its agreement with the city this year, and the entire matter of the development of this portion of the city's waterfront is in the balance.

It may be a year at the best before the matter can be presented to Congress. Colonel Rees' preliminary plans will undoubtedly be referred to him for a more detailed report and survey. To prepare this will take time, and the final report and plans will then have to be approved by the rivers and harbor board. It is desirable that all speed should be made with the matter now, as the preliminaries will require many months.

MUST SEE PLANS FIRST.

Nothing can be expected from Washington, it is pointed out, until plans for the development shall have been submitted to the board of river and harbor engineers, as no appropriation can be made until a definite project is before the board and has been approved. The entire matter rests on the Colonel Rees plan, and nothing can be done until these have been transmitted to Washington and have been approved.

The Oakland harbor project, which has been approved upon the basis of which appropriations have been made by Congress through the endeavors of the California delegation, includes only the inner harbor. In 1912 orders were issued for a survey and Colonel Rees was asked to prepare a report. Oakland harbor, including the western waterfront, was to be included in this.

Colonel Rees prepared a plan for the development of the harbors of

WORST RAIN OF YEARS IS ABOUT OVER

To the accompaniment of a gale which reached a velocity of nearly ninety miles an hour, a terrific storm of wind, rain and snow swept over California early this morning. When shortly after daybreak the full force of the elements subsided, flood conditions which filled up railroad travel in several directions and cut off from communication many of the smaller cities and towns, prevailed. Snow, a rarity in San Francisco, carpeted portions of Golden Gate Park, and fell upon Tamalpais, spreading down into sections of Mill Valley, Ross Valley and the other suburban communities.

Overland passenger traffic was opened today on the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific lines after having been tied up during the night. Freight service will be resumed late today.

The hills back of Oakland and Berkeley also received a goodly share, and in the Sacramento Valley the snow remained on the ground today, even though there seemed sufficient rain to melt it. Southern California, and the San Joaquin Valley received the major portion of the flood waters of yesterday and partial paralysis of business has resulted. The storm, which yesterday hung off in the Pacific, passed over Central California, through Nevada and into Utah, where the main disturbance lies today. The general prediction of the weather bureau is for a cessation of the rain and storm.

SEN IN SOUTHLAND.

From San Luis Obispo southward the rain fell early this morning in torrents. Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Riverside, Redlands and San Diego ran rivers of water, but the sun was shining there this forenoon.

WAR THREATS FOR PLAN TO DUMP GARBAGE

Because of the wreck last night of the garbage carrying steamer Aberdeen, garbage will be dumped tomorrow behind the levee across the Key Route basin several hundred feet south of the Fourteenth street trestle. This announcement was made today by Commissioner of Streets W. J. Bascus. Bascus declared that if this were not done it would be necessary to instruct the garbage men to collect no more refuse, but to let it pile up in the homes, hotels and restaurants.

"I'll shoot the horses of the first team that tries to take garbage to be dumped at the western waterfront," declared Captain J. W. Parsons of the West Oakland Tax Payers' and Businessmen's League. "We won't stand for it. The people of West Oakland will barricade the roads. To do this would be a disgrace."

"You will have to take your complaint before the city council," said Commissioner Bascus.

Captain Parsons returned to West Oakland to raise a committee of protestants. It is anticipated that a big protest will result.

Superintendent of Streets Perry F. Brown stated that opinions from the health authorities have been obtained in which it is stated that the dumping of garbage in the water behind the levee of the Key Route basin would not in any way prove a menace to health.

Garbage was dumped today in the north arm of the estuary near Eighth and Fallon streets. The street department would have caused the dumping on the western waterfront had it not been for the fact that a road had to be constructed. The road will be completed by tomorrow.

Wilson Urges Preparedness Points U. S. Defense Needs

President Wants Peace, but Without Peril of Powerful Foe Passing American Coastal Bulwarks

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—President Wilson last night opened his personal appeal to the country for national defense. He gave warning that the plans for the readjustment of the army must be formulated and carried out without delay, and solemnly declared he could not predict that the outlook for the United States would be as bright tomorrow as today.

Speaking at banquets of the Railway Business Association and the Motion Picture Board of Trade, he sounded the keynote of addresses that he will deliver during the next ten days in the Middle West.

IN FIGHTING MOOD.

Wilson was in a fighting mood throughout his address. In a speech delivered early in the day he declared he always accepted an invitation to fight. He told the railway men he was an advocate of peace and had just where he cast aside almost entirely the text of the address that he had previously prepared for delivery there, he was frequently interrupted by applause.

The President at both banquets and all during his day's visit to New York was greeted with enthusiasm. On his first between the hotels where the banquets were held he was escorted by a band and the Ninth Company of Coast Artillery of the New York National Guard. Thousands of persons packed the streets and cheered as he passed.

APPLAUSE INTERRUPTS.

During his speech before nearly 1500 business men at the railway banquet, where he cast aside almost entirely the text of the address that he had previously prepared for delivery there, he was frequently interrupted by applause.

The President admitted that in a message to the last Congress he had said the need for preparedness was not pressing. He declared that he had learned differently in the meantime. He cited his recent support of a tariff commission as another instance of a change on his part, but

SMASHED TO BITS BY HURRICANE

Not One Member of Crew of Oakland Vessel Saved to Tell How It Occurred

LOST MILE OFF THE GATE

VENTURING into the teeth of the bitterest gale that for years has swept the coast, the crew of the steamer Aberdeen, which carries the garbage of east bay cities to sea, paid for their temerity with their lives last night when the vessel, putting about for its return voyage, was smashed to pieces by the storm. Captain and crew of seven were drowned. Up to noon today the bodies of none of them had washed ashore.

The dead are:

PETER M. KNUDSEN, captain, 5336 Manila Avenue.
ROBERT J. MOORE, city inspector, 2118 High street.
R. J. JOHNSON, first officer, San Francisco.
LOUIS DE CUTTONI, engineer, San Francisco.
EDWARD JOHNSON, fireman, 535 Market street.
C. SCHMIDT, winch tender, 564 Central Avenue, Alameda.
CHARLES MARTIN, sailor.

Not one man of those on board escaped to tell how the wreck occurred. Bits of the vessel's hull and fragments of a lifeboat drifting ashore on the San Francisco beach told a portion of the pitiful story. The dismantled hulk, buffeted about by wind and wave, was visible a mile or more off shore this morning, slowly being beaten to pieces.

CAPTAIN IGNORES WARNINGS OF DANGER

The Aberdeen, loaded, it is believed, well up to her capacity of 400 tons, left this side last evening at 5 o'clock. Along the wharf several persons attempted to dissuade Captain Knudsen from attempting in the midst of so terrific a gale as then prevailed to go to sea, but Knudsen believed the trip could be made without danger. The boat got away with a fifty-mile wind blowing up the estuary and Point Reyes station reporting a hurricane up to ninety-five miles an hour off the heads.

At 6 o'clock the lookout at Point Bonita sighted the Aberdeen on her outward passage. The vessel was battling against a heavy wind coming in from the northwest and was beating slightly to south of west on her way out from the heads. Then the lookout lost sight of the craft. An hour later or more, shortly after 7 o'clock, he again caught sight of the Aberdeen, apparently inward bound. She was making slow progress, but in the hasty glimpse he had of her, he believed she was already across the bar. Then between him and the boat fell a dense curtain of mingled mist and snow and he saw no more of the boat.

WRECKAGE BEARS MESSAGE OF DISASTER

This morning by the earliest light of dawn members of the South Side Life Saving Station crew, patrolling the San Francisco beach, came upon pieces of wreckage. On one of these was the battered wording, "Steamer Aberdeen." A life preserver floated ashore. It also bore the steamer's name. For a mile or more along the sands wreckage from the vessel continued to drift ashore, for hours after Peter Strand of the life-saving crew made the first discovery.

BRANDEIS NAMED FOR SUPREME BENCH

President's Nomination of Successor of Justice Lamar Causes Surprise.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—President Wilson today selected Louis D. Brandeis of Boston to succeed the late Justice Lamar. Brandeis' nomination went to the Senate today. It was a surprise everywhere in official circles, as Brandeis had not even been mentioned for the vacancy.

Louis Dembitz Brandeis is perhaps best known to the public through his work as counsel for Louis Glavis in the Halliburton-Pinchot investigation, and for his part in the advanced freight investigation before the Interstate Commerce Commission, but he has been a leading lawyer of Boston and later of Washington, D. C., since 1873. He was born at Louisville, Ky., in 1856, received his degree of Bachelor of Laws from Harvard in 1877 and an honorable Master of Arts degree in 1881. He was admitted to the bar in 1878. He was counsel for the people in proceedings involving the constitutionality of Oregon and Illinois ten-hour laws for women and was chairman on the arbitration board during the New York garment workers' strike in 1910.

He is well known as an author and publicist and has written many articles on public franchises, life insurance and legal matters. Harvard has made him an honorary member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity.

Station crews along the shore drew their boats to the water's edge ready for launching, but not one sign came to them of anyone still alive in the foaming waters offshore, and the crews held back. Only the boat of the Fort Point crew put to sea during the morning and though it cruised about for hours, found no sign of any bodies to reward its search.

During the morning no garbage came ashore on the coast, leading the life crews to suppose that the Aberdeen had already overturned her load before her timbers were smashed by the gale. Well up out of the water a mile or more offshore the hull of the battered boat could be picked up with glasses this morning when occasionally the wind drove the mist aside. The sea between the hulk and the shore was littered with wreckage.

VESSEL'S BOAT SMASHED.

In the middle of the forenoon Captain John Granbeck of the Fort Point station found part of the bow of a small boat from the wrecked vessel. It was impossible to tell whether the boat had been launched by members of the crew, only to be swept from under them, or whether it was whipped from its davits by the wind.

By those acquainted with the construction of the Aberdeen, men along the wharves who had been to sea aboard her, and the testimony of the life-saving crews on the ocean front, some explanation of how the met her fate could this afternoon be pieced together. The vessel had a net tonnage of 244 tons, and at this season of the year, was running as a rule loaded close to her capacity. A month ago, in fact, she took so heavy a load aboard on one occasion that, to prevent disaster, her captain had to order a portion of it discharged long before the usual destination of her cargoes was reached. This at the time led to complaints that the vessel was discharging so close ashore that debris floated upon the bay coast, but the occurrence was easily proven exceptional by the boat's master.

The Aberdeen was built with high vertical aprons about the deck which

Oil Rigs Crash Beneath Storm

Million Is Lost in Coaling Bay

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 28.—Incomplete reports from the Kern county oil fields indicate that the windstorm of yesterday afternoon and last night did far more damage than the storm of two weeks ago. With four large oil companies in the Midway field and a number of smaller ones, it has been found that 450 rigs were blown down. This loss is made up of 311 rigs in the Midway, sixty-six in the Lost Hills field and thirty-two in the Kern River field. It is expected that the losses not reported from the fields mentioned and from the McKittrick field will bring the total loss of nearly $1,000,000 in derricks alone and many more rigs were damaged.

Many oil company properties were wrecked, the wind destroying bunk houses and other buildings. Fellows suffered heavily from the storm. Many of the buildings were blown down and rendered a mass of broken timbers. The Star Theater, one of the largest structures in the North Midway, was almost completely destroyed. The damage was nearly as great. Many roofs were torn off. Two garages were lifted from their foundations and carried several hundred feet.

Weaver Pittman, a lineman, suffered several broken ribs when some flying corrugated iron pinned him to a pole at Taft. Otto Kramer of Fellows suffered a broken leg when the wind picked up the wooden sidewalk on which he was standing and wrecked it. Other minor accidents are reported.

The power lines from the Crane valley power house to Bakersfield on both sides of the valley are out of commission through wrecked towers. It probably will be several days before the lines can be put in order.

The bridge in the Arp district, a suburb of Bakersfield, was again inundated last night when a large volume of water broke the levee banks. The high water mark of last week's flood has not been reached and it is believed the water will subside before this mark is again reached. A cold snap coming on last night is said to have checked a thaw in the mountains, which would have sent another flood of water down the Kern river.

Heavy Artillery Duel on the West Front

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The following official communication was issued last night:

"Early this morning we exploded a mine opposite Givenchy. Organized bombardments have been carried out on several portions of the hostile line. The hostile artillery has been active today east and northeast of Loos, south of the Bois Grenier, northeast of Arrancieres and northeast of Ypres. Our artillery retaliated successfully on the hostile batteries and trenches."

let down laterally when the vessel dumped its load, this being additionally exhausted by the action of the hydraulic pumps. The discharge of the load was usually achieved as the vessel came about for the return voyage, the boat usually not stopping to perform the operation, but discharging the debris as it tacked.

HURRICANE WINDS.
Point Reyes meteorological station reported a little after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon that a 55-mile wind was blowing inshore from the northwest. The barometer was falling at that hour from the mid-afternoon minimum, when a record in coast meteorological history was established, and the wind was slightly moderating when the Aberdeen must have reached her destination. It was still raging, however, at times up to the hurricane velocity which a craft would have to be well-built and ballasted to withstand. It was such a wind that must have caught the Aberdeen as, losing hundreds of tons of ballast, she tumbled about at the same instant to receive its impact full on her broadside.

The life-saving crews along the ocean shore remarked today upon the very small size of the pieces of wreckage that floated ashore. They looked, said one member of the Golden Gate crew, as if the Aberdeen had been blown up by a dynamite explosion on board. Under the impact of a wind that thus could smash a steam vessel to pieces small boats could have had no chance. Bits of wreckage were picked up along the shore, but whether the crew of the Aberdeen had attempted to put it to use or not there was no means of determining.

The Aberdeen was the property of the Signal Supply Company, which Frederick Linderman of 2001 Alameda avenue, Alameda, is the chief owner interested. Linderman was informed early this morning of the loss of the boat. He stated that the Aberdeen had been previously in the lumber trade on the coast and had been converted to the purposes of a garbage hauler at the time the city awarded to him the contract for disposal of refuse. Not only Oakland garbage was carried in the craft, but the garbage of Berkeley, Alameda and Piedmont as well, these cities having an arrangement with the city of Oakland which contracted directly with Linderman. The boat was built at Aberdeen, Wash., in 1909.

The Aberdeen's second boat which has hauled east bay refuse for years, two years ago the steamer Signal, having discharged her cargo of debris off the bar, was returning to Oakland. She had passed inside the Cliff House two miles or more when she was blown on the south shore and wrecked on the reef there. In portion the vessel was salvaged. One member of her crew was drowned.

Captain Peter Knudsen was well known in marine circles up and down the coast, had resided for several years in this city, most recently making his home at 6336 Manila avenue. He is survived by his widow and his daughter Mrs. Evelyn Knudsen.

KELLY NOT WITH BOARD FIGHT FANS

Change of Meeting Night to Be Resisted by Physician Member.

As the result of the action of the Board of Education in changing the meeting nights, considerable difficulty is expected by members of the board in holding sessions under the new system, which provides for Tuesday night sessions. Dr. A. S. Kelly, one of the trustees opposing the change in the meeting night, has several conflicting meetings as a result, Tuesday night being the night of the meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the faculty of the Oakland Medical School, all of which he is forced to attend. Dr. Kelly was, through an error, reported as voting for the change, but as a matter of fact he voted against it, and throughout the committee meetings opposed the change.

The Board of Education changed the meeting night from Wednesday to Tuesday nights, following a lively contest, at which it was charged that the night was being changed to permit members of the board who were fight fans to attend the West Oakland bouts.

Directors Kelly, Brown and Hayes voted against the change. Dr. Kelly, who is a member of the board, carried the alteration of the meetings nights. Dr. Kelly declares it is practically impossible for him to attend the Tuesday night sessions without giving up other important business. Miss Brown also declared that Tuesday night was inconvenient to her.

The matter will be brought up again in committee session next week.

U. C. Dean Was on Injured Liner Ryndam

Dr. David P. Barrows, dean of the faculty of the University of California, who is now in Europe studying war conditions, was a passenger on board the transatlantic liner Ryndam on which a serious accident occurred in the English channel. Three sailors were killed and four injured in the accident, which, while word of its exact nature has not been received, was evidently caused by an explosion in the boiler room. None of the passengers was injured.

The Ryndam sailed from New York on January 5 for Falmouth and Rotterdam and was delayed for more than a day by the accident. She had a heavy list to starboard as she entered port.

carried, floated ashore on the San Francisco beach later this morning. It was searched by members of the life-saving crew without the discovery of any bodies. This fact led the crew to believe more certainly than before that the eight men on board had attempted to launch a lifeboat and had been drowned when this was swept away from beneath them.

The broken hull of the vessel was the objective for numerous curious hunters after it had floated ashore. It was abandoned by the life-saving crew when found to contain no bodies.

A portion of the lifeboat on which it was supposed the crew sought safety floated ashore a mile and a half south of the stranded hull of the vessel this afternoon. The small boat had been smashed in two amidships apparently by the blow of a mighty wave. Parts of the cargo of garbage which the Aberdeen carried commenced coming ashore this afternoon.

WORST STORM IN HISTORY OF STATE

were out of commission and numbers of cities and towns in the south virtually are marooned.

All records for January rain in the weather bureau have been shattered. Not since 1871, when San took charge of the records in the state has there been such a deluge of rain at this time of the year. At noon yesterday the records had been passed by .64, and this morning it was said that nearly an inch more had fallen, however, a terrific series of storms visited the west and private accounts kept at that time show a larger precipitation than has thus far come this year. An idea of the storm conditions is given by the weather report for twenty-four hours, as follows:

Oakland	San Luis Obispo
San Bernardino	2.34
Redlands	2.30
Santa Barbara	2.04
Los Angeles	1.74

BERKELEY HILLS SNOW MANTLED

BERKELEY, Jan. 28.—The Berkeley hills received another coat of white this morning, making three layers of snow to be deposited within the last twenty-four hours. Snow fell some time during the night and with daylight residents saw the higher levels adorned in a new and gleaming mantle. Then, at 8 o'clock, the clouds hid the hills and snow descended.

The heaviest of the year. A heavy fall was noticed in all parts of the city, although it quickly melted away. With the lifting of the clouds it was seen that this last fall in the hills is the heaviest in years. On the summit it is thought there are several inches of "the beautiful" which extends well down the slopes. Particularly deep is the snow just over the first row of foothills. A view up the canyon behind the Claremont Hotel is like one at Truckee in the winter.

LOS ANGELES SEES SUN, BUT WATERS RAMPAGE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—A clear sky smiled today on the wreckage caused by yesterday's storm, while flood waters continued to break restraints and add to the damage. More than a hundred families were homeless in suburbs near here today, many of them as the result of a broken water main which burst at Logwood, near here, from the pressure of drainage.

Hundreds of acres were flooded early today when the receding waters of the Santa Ana river washed through a weakened bank of the river near Anaheim. Los Angeles remains out of communication with San Diego and the intervening territory.

WHARF WASHED AWAY AT WATSONVILLE

WATSONVILLE, Jan. 28.—Moss landing wharf, eight miles south of here, was washed out last night during a gale that uprooted trees, wrecked fences and blew down telegraph poles and wires. The wharf was the only shipping point between here and Mexico. The total damage in this vicinity was estimated at $10,000. The storm subsided somewhat today, the temperature fell and an inch of snow covered the ground.

NO FLOOD DANGER IN SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 28.—The storm which has prevailed throughout Northern California for the past several days, broke today, leaving overland traffic on the Southern Pacific and the Western Pacific lines tied up because of the big fall of snow and snowslides in the Sierras. Clear skies prevailed in the Sacramento valley, but it is still snowing some in the mountains. At the summit this morning there was seventeen and one-half feet of snow on the level, with seventeen inches at Cisco and ninety-three inches at Blue Canyon. The Sacramento river and its tributaries is still far from the flood stage.

WORST FLOOD IN YEARS THREATENS ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 28.—Hundreds of persons are homeless and thousands of acres of land are inundated in the lower reaches of the White and the Arkansas rivers. Upstream, with the Arkansas river four miles wide at Mulberry, is a volume of water which river men believe will cause the worst flood in twenty-five years.

With the reports of high water came also information from Mulberry that a heavy rain and wind had done considerable damage to residences, signs and oil mill plants. Heavy rains over the state last night added to the difficulties of the situation.

STORM PARTS TWIN SISTERS

SANTA CRUZ, Jan. 28.—One of the Twin Sisters, a landmark known to thousands of tourists who have come to see the famous El Estrecho here, fell before the gale that blew here last night after weathering storms for generations past. The tree crushed a small building and a fence as it fell and missed by ten feet another building.

Scores of smaller trees were blown down, some of them falling across the railroad tracks and interrupting traffic.

Warner's Safe Diabetes Remedy

In diabetes the nutrition is impaired—this results in an excess of sugar in the blood and the failure of the food to nourish, hence a gradual wasting away while eating well.

Symptoms of this disease are increased thirst, excess of urine, emaciation and dry skin often with sweetish odor.

BAY SHORE PLAN IS STILL IN WEST

Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond, Emeryville and Albany and, after lengthy discussion and controversy, this was approved in 1913 by the representatives of these cities. At a meeting at the Oakland Commercial Club delegates from the cities unanimously subscribed to a resolution approving the plan, and asked "that Colonel Rees be requested to transmit his preliminary plans to the board of river and harbor engineers at Washington, D. C., at his earliest possible convenience."

PARTS OF UNITED PLAN.

It is these plans upon which Colonel Rees has been working for over two years. The Berkeley plans have gone forward, and the Oakland plans are to be sent in two weeks. They are both parts of the general plan for the entire harbor, from Oakland to Richmond, and Colonel Rees explained today that the development of the detailed plans for the Berkeley portion first had no significance, as the Berkeley harbor is part of the entire project as at first outlined by him.

"The only practicable solution of the problem," said Colonel Rees, "is to abandon the old idea of separate basins with independent entrance channels and to create one continuous and unobstructed deep water frontage extending along the reclaimed shore from deep water at the Oakland estuary to deep water at Point Richmond."

This plan contemplates the abandonment of the Key Route pier and the concentration of ferry slips for both the Southern Pacific and Key Route south of the opening of the self-clearing, deep-water channel along the entire waterfront. It was this feature which caused the opposition to the plans when they were first promulgated.

Colonel Rees refused to make any recommendations to Washington unless he could make them on a comprehensive scheme looking to future development. He was finally accorded the endorsement of the east bay cities and commercial bodies and asked to transmit the plans.

HARBOR PROJECT ENLARGED.

These plans, when they arrive at Washington, will be on the basis of an enlarged Oakland harbor project upon which Congress may act in making appropriations. The resolutions passed by the city council and the Chamber of Commerce can be of no effect until these plans for the enlarged project shall have been considered at Washington.

Commercial and civic bodies are preparing to petition that the utmost expedition be used in having these plans placed before the river and harbor board, in order that Oakland may get action. The resolutions passed by the city council yesterday are of the utmost significance, if they are made to lead to the inclusion of the western waterfront in the enlarged Oakland harbor project, so that appropriations may be made for this development.

Big Milling Company Is Granted Lease on Western Waterfront

Albers Bros. Milling Company was awarded the first lease on Oakland's waterfront today by the city council. The granting of this lease means an investment by the milling company of $200,000 and an increase in Oakland's industrial payroll.

The coming of Albers Bros. means that the first commercial wharfage will pass over the city's western docks, and that this will be used as the primary argument in favor of the United States government granting aid in the development of the Greater Oakland harbor project.

"Without commercial tonnage across the city waterfront, federal aid is impossible," said Harrison S. Robinson, chairman of the harbor committee of the Chamber of Commerce, in urging the award of the contract to Albers Bros. before the city council.

"Once we have established the fact that we are doing business over this portion of our waterfront, the federal government will recognize our right to appropriations aiding in the development of our harbor," declared Joseph King, president of the Chamber of Commerce. "The government has established the precedent that in making such appropriations it will usually spend two dollars for every dollar that has been expended in harbor development by the municipality."

The lease to Albers Bros. was granted by a unanimous vote of the city council, after representatives from the commercial and civic bodies had been heard. No organized opposition to the grant was represented before the city council.

The lease is for apron wharf No. 1 and a small strip of land backing it at the rear and parallel to the Southern Pacific mole. It will front upon the Key Route basin, and will be bagged upon Seventh street extended, this being the means of access to the leased land. The area leased is 102x219 feet.

BUILDING AND DOCK.

In a letter filed with the city council today, Albers Bros. agreed to erect the largest and most complete mill-lane plant of its kind in the West, to expend $175,000 on building and dock and $150,000 on machinery and equipment, and announced that the company will employ 150 men at the completion of the plant.

Tonnage will amount to about 100,000 tons per annum at the completion of the plant, according to estimates prepared by the milling company.

Anderson having taken the lead in the matter.

The first draft of the lease was submitted to the harbor committee of the Chamber of Commerce. This committee, after several weeks making a thorough study of the situation, and materially revised the original lease to safeguard the interests of the municipality. Anderson thanked the committee today for its splendid work in behalf of the city.

LEASE GOOD BUSINESS.

"The harbor development committee of the Chamber of Commerce gave many hours of its entire membership to the study of this proposition," said Robinson, chairman of the committee. "It held three or four meetings with Albers Bros., going over the details."

"We regard this lease as the best business proposition obtainable at this time from the pioneers of the western waterfront. Every word of that statement is significant."

"The main consideration of a harbor is the tonnage—tonnage over the waterfront, carrying in its train government aid for the waterfront."

"The United States Government has expended nothing in surveys nor in actual physical development on the Oakland western harbor. The government will expend money if actual commercial tonnage can be shown across these wharves."

"The other big thing is the payroll which will be created by this new industry. The annual industrial payroll of Oakland is about 6000 people. It should be three or four times that number to maintain the average of this city as an industrial community. The new plant will employ about 150 or 200 people at the start."

"We have had wharves on this waterfront for three years. The plant has not brought anything to the city, and has been actually depreciating in value."

"The necessity of getting started justifies the city in thus giving favorable consideration to the first comers."

WILSON PREACHES DEFENSE; HE SEES DANGER OF DELAY

declared previously there was no need for such a commission.

DISCUSSES MEXICO.
Mr. Wilson spoke of men of high character who were clouding the preparation of the defense. He declared that the United States could no longer cut itself off from the rest of the world.

The President vigorously discussed his Mexican policy. He asserted that to invade Mexico would mean the loss of confidence of the rest of the western hemisphere. He cited the trading of Cuba as an instance of good done by the United States.

"I have drawn into the maelstrom which now surges in Europe," the President declared, "and shall not be permitted to do the high things we would prefer."

NOT FOR MILITARISM.

The President defended the continental army plan drawn up by Secretary Garrison, and said he did not care about the details of any plan as long as 500,000 trained men were provided as reserves under the federal government. He advocated strengthening the National Guard, but said the constitution itself put the guard under the state. He added that the United States will not turn in the direction of military states should prepare Wilson said:

"We must protect our rights as a nation and the rights of our citizens in America and outside of it as the consensus of civilized people has defined them. Most important of these are the rights of our political development within our own borders and must protect the peace and political autonomy of the Americas."

In his address at the Railway Business Association banquet President Wilson said, in part:

"The exacting nature of my official duties recently have been so great that I have been very seldom, indeed, that I could give myself so great a pleasure as that which I am enjoying tonight. It is a great pleasure to come and be greeted in such a friendly and so deeply engaged in some of the most important undertakings of the nation, and I consider it a privilege to be permitted to be before you some of the things to which we ought to give our most careful and deliberate consideration. The question, it seems to me, which most demands clarification just now is the question of preparation for national defense."

I say that it is in need of clarification because, singularly enough, it has been deeply clouded by passion and prejudice. It is very singular that a question, the elements of which are so simple and so obvious, should have been so befuddled by the discussion of men of high motive, men of purpose as handsome as any of us may claim, and yet apparently incapable of divesting themselves of that sort of provincialism which consists in thinking the contents of their own mind to be the contents of the mind of the world. For, gentlemen, while America is a great nation, while America contains all the elements of fine force and accomplishments, America does not constitute the major part of the world."

"We live in a world which we did not make, which we cannot alter, which we cannot think into a different condition from that which actually exists. It would be a hopeless piece of provincialism to suppose that because we think differently from the rest of the world, we are at liberty to assume that the rest of the world will permit us to enjoy that thought without disturbance."

SURPRISING CIRCUMSTANCE.

It is a surprising circumstance, also, that men should allow partisan feeling or personal ambition to creep into the discussion of this fundamental thing. How can Americans differ about the safety of America?

And I, for my part, am ambitious that America should do a greater and more difficult thing than the great nations on the other side of the water have done. In all the belligerent countries men, without distinction of party, have drawn together to accomplish a successful prosecution of the war. Is it not a more difficult and a more desirable thing that all Americans should put partisan passion aside and draw together for the successful prosecution of peace? I covet that distinction for America, and I believe that America is going to enjoy that distinction."

It is very fine to remember what I have said back of that assistance. Economic assistance in itself is not necessarily handsome. It is a legitimate thing to make money. Money brings with it power, which may be well or ill employed. And it should be well employed. America always to employ her money to the highest purpose. And yet if we are drawn into the maelstrom that now surrounds the waters and swirls even the western regions of the world, we shall not be permitted to keep a free hand to do the high things that we intend to do. And it is necessary that we should examine ourselves and so order that we can make certain that the tasks imposed upon us will be performed, and well performed."

AMERICA RELUCTANT.

America has been reluctant to match her wits with the rest of the world. When I face a body of men like this, it is almost incredible to remember that only yesterday they were afraid to put their wits into free competition with the world. The best brains in the world agreed to match brains with the rest of the world. We have professed to be behind protecting devices, and now we are thrust out to do, on a scale never dreamed of in recent generations in America, the business of the world."

We can no longer be a provincial nation. Let no man say, if he would speak the truth, that the question of perfection of national defense is a question of war or peace."

There is no spirit of aggrandizement in America. There is no desire on the part of any thoughtful and conscientious American man to take one foot of territory from any nation in the world. And I myself share to the bottom of my heart that profound love for peace. I have sought to maintain peace against very great and sometimes very unfair odds, and I am ready at any time to use every power that is in me to prevent such a catastrophe as war coming upon this country."

So that it is not permissible for any man to say with anxiety that the defense of the nation has the least tinge in it of the own power which can be used to bring on war. But, gentlemen, there is something that the American people love better than they love peace. They love the principles upon which their political life is founded. They are ready at any time for the vindication of their character and of their honor."

They will at no time seek a contest, but they will at no time cravenly avoid it. Because, if there is one thing that the country and the nation ought to fight for it is the integrity of its own convictions. We will not surrender our convictions. I would rather surrender territory than surrender those ideals, which are the staff of life for the soul itself. And because we hold certain ideals, we are held to it. It is right we should hold them for others as well as ourselves."

WILLING TO FIGHT.

"America has more than once given evidence of the generosity and disinterestedness of its love of liberty. It has been willing to fight for the liberty of others as well as for its own liberty. The world sneered when we set out for the liberation of Cuba, but the world does not sneer any longer. The world knows now what it is then loath to believe, that a nation can sacrifice its own interests and its own blood for the sake of the liberty and happiness of another people."

May I venture to insert here a parenthesis? Have any of you thought of this? We have been slow, very slow indeed, to win the confidence of other states of the American hemisphere. If we should go into Mexico, do you know what would happen? All the sympathy of the rest of the Americas would look across the water, and not northward to the great republic which we profess to represent."

And do you not see the consequences that would ensue in every international relationship? Have the gentlemen who have rushed down to Washington to insist that we should go into Mexico reflected upon the politics of the world. Nobody seriously supposes, gentlemen, that the United States needs men that fear an invasion of its own territory. What America has to fear is that she has anything to fear, are indirect, roundabout flank movements upon her position in the western hemisphere."

Perhaps when you learned as I learned you did not understand. I was expected to address you on the subject of preparedness, you recalled the address which I made to Congress something more than a year ago, in which I said that this question of military preparedness was not a pressing subject. But then, and I would be ashamed if I did not learn something in four months. The minute I stop changing my mind as President with the change of all the circumstances in the world, I will be a back number."

CHANGES MIND.

There is another thing about which I have changed my mind. A year ago I was not in favor of a tariff board, and I will tell you why. Because I thought the only purpose of a tariff board was to keep alive an unprofitable controversy. If you set up any board of inquiry whose purpose it is to keep business disturbed, and to make it always an open question what is going to do, the government public policy of the government, I am opposed to it. And the very men who were dining it into our ears that what business wanted was to be let alone, were, many of them, men who were insisting that we should start up a tariff board, and that we could not let it alone. There is a great deal more vocal opinion in this world than is consistent with logic."

But the circumstances of the present time are these: There is going on in the world, under our eyes, an economic revolution. No man understands that revolution, no man has the elements of it clearly in his mind, no part of the business of legislation with regard to international trade can be undertaken until we do understand it. And members of Congress are loath to study it. They are loath to leave their duties and distracting to make it possible within a sufficiently short space of time for them to master the change that is coming."

There is so much to understand that we have not the data to comprehend; that I for one would not dare, so far as my advice is concerned, to leave the government without the adequate means of inquiry."

I cannot tell you what the international relations of this country will be tomorrow, and I use the word literally. And I would not dare keep silent and let the country suppose that tomorrow was certain to be as bright as today."

America will never be the aggressor; America will always seek to the last point at which her honor is involved to avoid the things which disturb the peace of the world. But America does not control the circumstances of the world, and we must be sure that we are faithful servants of those things which we love and are ready to defend them against every contingency that may affect or impair them."

NO MILITARISM.

We must seek the means which are consistent with the principles of our lives. It goes without saying that one thing this country will never endure is a system of men called militarism. But militarism consists in preparing a great machine whose only use is for war, and giving it no use to which to apply itself. Men who are in charge of edged tools and blades to prepare them for exact and scientific use grow very impatient if they are not permitted to use them, and I do not believe that the creation of such an instrument is an insurance of peace. I believe it involves the danger of all the temptations that skillful persons have to use the things that they know how to use."

But we don't have to do that. America is always going to use her arms in two ways. She is going to use it for the purpose of peace and she is going to use it as a nucleus for expansion. Into these things which she does believe in, namely, the preparation of her citizens to take care of themselves."

There are two sides to the question of preparedness. There is not only the military side; there is the industrial side. And the ideal which I have in mind is this: We ought to have in this country a great system of industrial and vocational education, under federal guidance and with a federal character, which will give a large percentage of the youth of this country will be given training in the skillful use and application of the principles of science in manufacture and business. And it will be perfectly feasible and highly desirable to add to that training the mechanical, use and care of arms, in the sanitation of the camp, and in the simpler forms of maneuver and organization, as will make these same men industrially efficient and individually serviceable for national defense. It is incredible to this country, for this is a country full of intelligent men, that we should have exhibited to the world the example we have sometimes exhibited to it of stupidity and brutal waste of force. I think we can easily be drawn to come into the field, crude, ignorant, inexperienced, and merely furnish the stuff for camp fever and the bullets of the enemy. The sanitary experience of our army in the Spanish war was marked by an indifference to the manifest lessons of experience

Uncle Sam Pays But $600 Per Life Families of Submarine Victims Paid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Families of the men killed and injured by the recent explosion aboard the submarine E-2, at New York, the House judiciary committee was informed today by Miss Eva Ward of the American Association for Labor Legislation, will receive a maximum compensation under the federal employees' compensation act of only $600 in each case. The sums were designated as "pitifully and disgracefully small," by Charles E. Neill, former labor commissioner.

All the injured, Miss Ward said, were young men with families of small children and all will be permanently disabled.

Washington, D. C. Faces Dry Bill Measure Is Reported to Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Prohibition for the District of Columbia is the subject of a bill reported yesterday to Congress by the Senate committee on the subject of the local affairs of the capital. Leaders on both sides expect the question to be fought out in the open at this session of Congress.

England Holds Whip Hand on Dye Stuff

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Principal American manufacturers of dyes and pigments have agreed to Great Britain's condition of exporting a reasonable amount of products to Canada in return for the lifting of the export embargo from the British possessions in West Indies. No further difficulty in getting the raw material from American industries now is expected.

In the matter of official preparation.

STATE MILITIA.

As governor of New Jersey, I was brought into association with what I am glad to believe was one of the most efficient portions of the National Guard of the United States. I learned to admire the men, to respect the officers and to believe in the National Guard."

And I believe that the great arm of our national defense should be built up and encouraged to the utmost. But you know that under the constitution of the United States it is under the direction of more than two score states and that it is not permitted to the national government directly to govern its appointment, and only in case of actual invasion has the President of the United States authority to ask those men to leave their respective states. I for my part am afraid that there is no way in which that force can be made a direct resource as a national force under national authority."

There is a body of men trained in association with units of the army, a body of men organized under the immediate direction of the national authorities; a body of men subject to the immediate call to arms of the national authorities; and yet men not put into the ranks of the regular army; men left to their tasks of civil life; men supplied with equipment and training, but not drawn from the peaceful pursuits which have made America what it is today."

IS NOT PARTISAN.

I am not a partisan of any one plan. I have had too much experience to think that it is right to say that the plan which I propose is the only plan that will work, because I have a shrewd suspicion that there may be other plans which will work. But what I am for, and what every American ought to insist upon, is a body of at least a half million trained citizens who will serve under conditions of danger as an immediate available national reserve."

I am not saying anything about the navy because I don't want to go to sea. I want to stick to the one theme tonight, because for some reason there is not the same controversy about the navy there is about the army. The navy is obvious and easily understood. The army is very difficult to comprehend and understand. We have a traditional prejudice against armies which makes us stop thinking the minute we begin talking of them; and we suppose that all be called militarism. But the American system in this instance, but that it must be the European system; and that is what I, for one, am trying to divest my own mind of. The navy is so obvious an instrument of national defense, that I believe that the differences of opinion about the details of it are not going to be difficult to carry out a proper and reasonable program for the increase of the navy."

REPUBLICAN LEADER DEFENDS PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Republican Leader Mann came to the defense of President Wilson in the House today when Representative Dies of Texas, leader of the anti-preparedness Democrats, attacked the President's New York speech on national defense. Mann rebuked Dies for making any remarks against the President's speaking tour and declared that his only defense for changing his position on preparedness was that he believed he was right."

PRESIDENT WILL START ON ANOTHER TRIP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—President Wilson returned from New York early today. The President planned a busy day, finishing up pressing public business prior to departing tonight for Pittsburgh and the Middle West to make a series of speeches on national defense. He is anxious that the "anti-under way" process in Congress be completed before his return February 4th.

It was indicated today that the President will devote his addresses to emphasizing the points made by him in New York speech, although he will also discuss virtually all important questions pending in Congress, including the shipping bill.

HANDS OFF MAILS! U. S. NOTE WARNS

America Sends Protest to England Against Interferences

Acts Unwarranted, Is Word Despatched Across Ocean

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The text of the American protest to Great Britain against interference with neutral mails, made public last night, reveals that diplomatic and consular pouches have been treated in a manner the United States considers "vehemently iniquitous." The note describes the practices of British officials as "unwarranted interferences" and "urgently requesting a prompt reply" points out that "a strong feeling is being aroused" in this country by the loss of valuable letters, while foreign banks are refusing to cash American drafts because they have no assurance that drafts are secure in the mails.

The United States declares that parcel post articles are entitled to the exemptions of neutral trade, and declares the right of Great Britain to take neutral ships into British jurisdiction for the purposes of search and then submit them to local censorship regulations. It also denies that the British Government has any authority over neutralized mails on ships which merely touch at British ports.

With the text of the American note was made public Great Britain's interim reply, saying that questions of principle raised by the United States have made it necessary for Great Britain to consult her allies before answering finally, and indicating that there will be no unnecessary delay in the negotiations.

The note is in the form of a memorandum to an Ambassador Page at London instructing him to file a "formal and vigorous protest."

Pure Election Laws Introduced

Senate Would Limit the Source of Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Senate elections committee today recommended passage of bills to make it unlawful for any member of Congress to serve on or solicit funds for any political committee, club or organization, to limit the uses of campaign funds in presidential and congressional elections and prohibit the movement of outside funds into "doubtful" localities.

St. Columbus Church to Give Whist Party

An innovation is to be introduced at a whist party to be given for the benefit of St. Columbus Church in Golden Gate Hall, San Pablo avenue near Fifty-seventh street, next Monday evening. It will be a photographic concert. That the sound may be carried throughout the large hall the magnifying, a new invention for intensifying sound, will be used.

Among the women who are working for the success of the evening's entertainment are Mrs. J. W. Sweeney, Mrs. J. J. McGee, Mrs. J. J. Cook, Mrs. A. La Costa, Miss E. Brown, Miss R. E. Davis, Miss G. Sweeney, Miss Nellie Hayden and a score of others.

Americans Warned About Ship Buying

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Americans are warned by the Department of Commerce to make careful inquiry when contemplating the purchase of foreign vessels, as Great Britain, Austria-Hungary, Germany, France, Norway, Brazil and Spain have made laws forbidding sale of ships under their flags. Those nations possess more than three-fourths of the world's shipping tonnage.

Big Sum for Indian Tribes Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Distribution of $7,500,000 among 21,000 Chickasaw and 6000 Choctaw Indians was approved yesterday by the Indian affairs committee, considering the Indian appropriation bill.

Parents Should Know This Splendid Remedy

Simple Laxative Compound,
Helps to Correct Constipation in Children.

With all children there are times when the bowels fail to act naturally and it becomes necessary for the parents to administer a remedy. Cathartics and purgatives should never be used, as these agents afford only temporary relief while their violent action shocks the system unduly. Mrs. Eva P. Gaff, 517 10th St., Washington, D. C., says that her little girl, Marie, had been subject to constipation, and that she found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the best remedy because of its mildness, and now always keeps a bottle of it in the house.

MARIE GAFF.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from opiates or narcotic drugs of any kind, and is an ideal remedy for children, because of its mild action and positive effect. Its use tends to strengthen the impaired bowel action and restore normal regularity. It is important that parents should know of a dependable remedy with no unpleasant after-effects, griping or strain. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin costs only fifty cents a bottle and can be procured at any drug store. To obtain a trial bottle, free of charge, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Portuguese Consul Is Guest of Lodge

Dr. Carlos Sampaio, the Portuguese General Consul of New York, and wife, accompanied by Mrs. J. F. S. Pladade, Portuguese commissioner to the P. P. I. E., were entertained by the supreme officers of the U. P. E. C. at a luncheon at the Key Route Inn. The officers were Mrs. Maria Kardora, supreme president, of San Francisco; Mrs. Maria Pavia, supreme vice-president, of Oakland; Mrs. A. D. Fonseca, supreme secretary, of Oakland; Mrs. M. E. Soares, supreme treasurer, Oakland; Dr. J. B. De Faria, supreme medical director; supreme directors, Miss M. J. Smith of Hayward, Mrs. A. Furtado, Mrs. R. Fausino of San Francisco, Mrs. Maria D'Almeida, Mrs. Ludlo Avellar and Mrs. Belle Pimental of Oakland. The table was beautifully decorated in the national colors—red and green.

JITNEY MEN LOSE CASE ON APPEAL

Jitney buses will go out of business in the restricted zone of the downtown streets next Monday after more than a year's operation in competition with the street car system. Sitting on banc, the six judges of the Superior Court late yesterday denied the petition of the jitney bus association for a temporary injunction restraining the city authorities from making the recently passed ordinance effective. Jitney men said today that the decision means that they will be driven out of business as they declare it will be impossible for them to operate at a profit if denied the use of Broadway and Washington streets in the business section. The zone is bounded by Twentieth

GIRLS NOT WISE AT 19 YEARS? WOMEN IN THE NEWS JUDGE HENSHAW SAYS NO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—Pope said today that "youth and beauty is but a rate," and that "youth is but a rate." After they left the poor girls to their fate, the lower court's award of $400 damages to Miss Henshaw of the State Supreme Court and, while admitting practically all that John Henshaw and Pope have said on the subject, goes further and declares it as the law of the State of California that girls must be given a chance, even if they are not as wise as the law says they are, to forget their birthdays.

A girl of 19 is still in her youth," writes Justice Henshaw, in an opinion upholding the lower court's award of $400 damages to Miss Henshaw of the State Supreme Court and, while admitting practically all that John Henshaw and Pope have said on the subject, goes further and declares it as the law of the State of California that girls must be given a chance, even if they are not as wise as the law says they are, to forget their birthdays.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY BOHS UP WITH $13,461.81

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Out at the psychiatric hospital, silent and apparently unseeing, sits a little gray-haired old woman in a shabby dress who for days has puzzled the crowded policemen, the police matrons and the learned attorneys.

She cannot tell when she came, whether she is going, nor why she is in Chicago. Neither can she tell where she lives, though she does say her home is at "Yasata, Tex.," a place unknown to the postal guide or the railroad directories. She was puzzling enough throughout the three days she has been under observation, but interest was greatly heightened in her today when attendants found a small fortune stuffed into her shabby dress. Bonds, interest coupons, treasury notes, diamonds and even silver money were sewed into every garment she wore, to the total of $13,461.81.

TRAVELS WITH FORTUNE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—William C. Corbin, secretary of the Continental Building and Loan Association here, last night said: "I remember the little old woman, she corresponded with us first from Colorado Springs and she has been in the office since she came here. She is eccentric and travels all over the United States—always with a lot of money. She has relatives in Sonoma county. She is thought to be the same woman who approached the Southern Pacific ticket agent in Richmond, Va., a week ago and tendered $500 bill for a ticket to Richmond, Va. When the agent said he could not

WOULD BAR BIG GUNS ON VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The United States, in asking all European belligerents to make a general agreement to square their submarine warfare with the principles of humanity and international law, has taken the position that under changed conditions of naval warfare, merchant ships should carry no armament whatever.

All the powers have been notified that unless they subscribe to such principles, armed merchantmen will be treated as legitimate targets of attack, and may be regarded as an auxiliary cruiser, and is seriously considering the announcement of a purpose to treat these vessels on that basis because of the changed conditions in maritime warfare resulting from the introduction of the submarine and its defenseless character.

Secretary Lansing formally announced today that such a note had been sent to the belligerents. He said it was purely in the aid of humanity and did not bind the United States to any new principles if it were not accepted.

LINERS MAY SAIL. WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The Italian liners, America and Verona, will be permitted to sail from New York if the Italian government gives assurances, as it did in the case of Giuseppe Verdi, that their guns will be only used for defensive purposes.

French Land Force at Asia Minor Town

PARIS, Jan. 23.—A dispatch to the Matin says that French bluejackets have occupied the small town of Antiphillo, on the coast of Asia Minor, opposite Constantinople.

A Havana dispatch from Sabonki says the French marines landed from a warship which was supported by two armed trawlers and took prisoner the local garrison consisting of a captain and twenty-five men. They destroyed the telegraph wires, seized a number of locks and permitted Greek families which had been driven away to return to their dwellings.

Hold Britons for Trading With Enemy

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Three partners of Fowkes Brothers & Co., glove manufacturers, were today committed for trial in criminal court on the charge of obtaining goods from Germany through their New York branch and trading in such goods in contravention of the trading with the enemy act.

The defendants are William Gardner Riden, senior partner, William Fowkes Riden, who managed the American business, and Stanley Fowkes Riden, who in peace times was managing director of the German company known as "La Truse." The defendants were admitted to bail.

Berlin Confirms Word of Japanese Pact

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—The Overseas News Agency says: "According to the Frankfurter Zeitung, reports from far eastern press stating that special agreements have been reached between Germany and Japan, conceding preponderance to Japan, in the far east are correct."

EVERY THREE MINUTES ONE DIES IN THE U. S.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society illustrates the frightful toll of consumption by extinguishing a light every three minutes, and shows that it is the man or woman, girl or boy, who neglects colds, whose blood is impure, who feels weak and languid, who is the very one to contract tuberculosis—and none are immune.

During changing seasons, or after sickness, blood-quality is most important, and if you and your family will take Scott's Emulsion after meals it will charge your blood with health-sustaining richness, quicken circulation, and strengthen both lungs and throat.

Scott's is free from alcohol—easy to take—it cannot harm. Get a bottle today. Scott & Bower, Bloomfield, N. J.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to any good druggist and get a box of Oil of Kerafin capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and I am sure a well-to-do lady should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of uselessly fat. Druggists at all times from San Pablo and Sixteenth street, can supply you.

WOMAN CURED OF STOMACH ILLS

She Had Suffered From Stomach Trouble Since Childhood Without Relief.

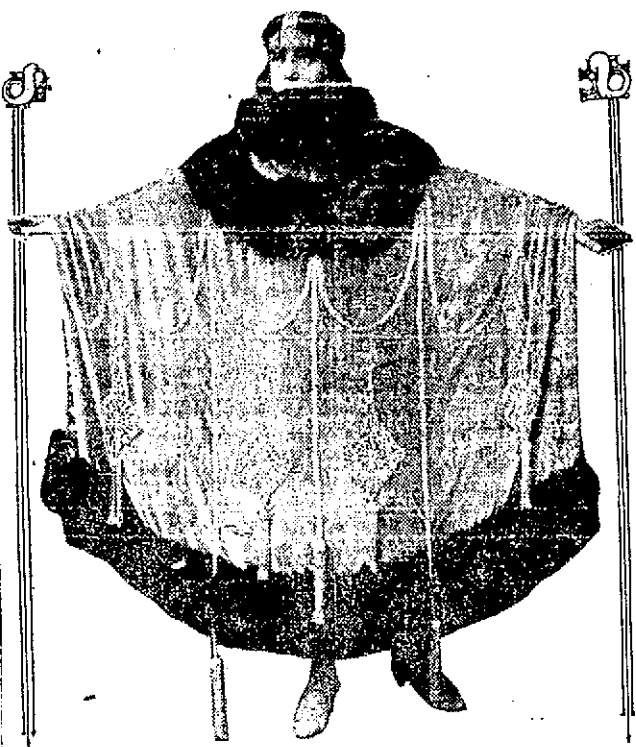

Health is the most desirable thing in all the world, for if one has health they can acquire wealth. The proof of the value of any preparation in restoring health is the fact that it has accomplished. Plant Juice, the new herbarial system tonic, now being introduced here, embodies the four fundamental principles of health: good circulation, elimination, relaxation and prevention.

That this is proven conclusively it is only necessary to listen to the statements of local people who have been benefited by Plant Juice after they have given up all hope. Recently the signed testimonial of Mrs. Bertha Redman, who resides at No. 1213 Ellory street, Detroit, Mich., was received. She stated:

"I have suffered from stomach trouble ever since I was a child. I always had cramps in my stomach and my left side was affected. My heart gave me a lot of trouble and I was so nervous that I could not get a good night's rest. I was told that I had gall stones and have taken all kinds of medicines but never had been benefited by them. I have now used only two bottles of Plant Juice and my stomach has never been in such fine condition. My food digests properly, and I am no longer nervous. My heart does not give me any trouble, and the gall stones have dissolved and passed away. Plant Juice is the greatest medicine in the world, for it has cured me and I am recommending it to everyone."

Plant Juice is sold in all Owl Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

EVELYN NESBIT MAY BUY RESIDENCE IN EAST BAY

EVELYN NESBITT, WHO WAS OAKLAND VISITOR TODAY, WITH HER SON RUSSELL.

Evelyn Nesbitt visited Oakland today as the guest of two of the best known realty operators in the east bay section and with her was a five-year-old lad, whom Miss Nesbitt remarked was the only real son in the world why she would arise at an early hour in the morning and cross a choppy and stormy bay to look at real estate bargains.

The lad was Evelyn Nesbitt's son, Russell, occasionally called "Ruster." He is the pride of Evelyn Nesbitt's life. Miss Nesbitt has been informed that in Oakland she might find an ideal spot in which to spend her summers with the lad, and give him the benefit of special tutors from the University who make a specialty of child culture.

It was to meet these university tutors and to examine various beautiful bungalows that were recommended to her for summer home purposes that Miss Nesbitt came to Oakland.

Miss Nesbitt stated that if any suited her she would purchase one, and this gladcome bit of news was the bait that drew really operators around her like flies around a maple sugar auction sale. There is no trouble or bother too great for Evelyn Nesbitt to take in behalf of this lad Russell of hers. There is a reason why Miss Nesbitt has worked like an athlete to make a genuine headliner of herself in vaudeville, and it is a perfectly good healthy reason.

The reason is five years old and is officially named Russell, but since his birth he has been known as Pom Pom, baby and occasionally Duster. The latter is generally the name wished on him by the stage crews of the theater. He is his mother's best audience. He is traveling with her on her tour of the Orpheum circuit, and makes himself a favorite wherever he goes. Evelyn Nesbitt has made herself a successful singer and dancer, but she is also a successful mother, and this youngster is undoubtedly the biggest thing in the world to her.

"He is his mother's best audience," she says. "There is some howling if he is not in a box every afternoon before our act goes on. And he always applauds. She hasn't fixed on his future career yet, preferring to wait until the boy indicated what line he would like to follow."

"I don't know whether I want him to be an actor, unless he shows an inclination that way. I believe I'd rather have him be an artist or a business man."

"Sure, he's a reason for it all. You have to have a reason, didn't you know that? It all goes along all right for a while and then you get blue and things don't go right—and that's where the reason comes in. I want to do it for him—make money and stand for something that I can really do well."

Fatal Auto Crash; Train in Ditch Driver of Machine Is Killed in Accident

NEWARK, Ohio, Jan. 28.—One man was killed and one seriously injured when a New York-St. Louis Panhandle Limited train struck an automobile at a crossing at Patakska fifteen miles from here, shortly before last midnight. The engine, three mail cars and two Pullmans were derailed and rolled over into a fifteen-foot gully.

Lee McCormick of Aetna, Ohio, driving the automobile, was instantly killed. James Masters, mail clerk, was the only person on the train injured, aside from minor bruises received by the passengers.

STOCKHOLDERS WIN IN NEW HAVEN CASE

Allowed to Sue Former Directors of Road of Many Troubles.

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—The Supreme Court today virtually empowered minority stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad to proceed in the name of the corporation in their suit to recover from former directors of the road $100,000 alleged to have been lost by improper purchases.

Judge Bradley, in allowing two amendments to this effect which were filed recently by minority interests allowed the respondents thirty days in which to demur or plead.

Hurries East to Get New Models

Mr. A. Harris of the Greater Oakland Cloak Co. left for New York Wednesday. "I have every reason to believe," said he, "that the approaching spring season will be marked by one of the most animated in the sphere of women's ready-to-wear outer garments. The styles are clever departures from the fall and winter models, and have already found warm endorsement."

"While our buyers in New York have already provided us with an elaborate collection of advance models which we have found a great demand for in the past three weeks, my visit is urged because of the early release by leading designers and manufacturers of the latest reproductions inspired by the arrival of the wonderful Parisian creations by the S. S. Lafayette."

"In the interest of the women of Oakland, it is too important to allow my visit to be deferred a single day, or to depend wholly upon our New York office for those first style hints. So I am rushing on for a first view and selection of these notable models. It may be depended upon that the result of my visit will be an instant reflection of what is correct, dashing, becoming, especially conforming to the style wants of our women. And this may be found as true in our Sweet Sixteen models as in the costumes of the finest type."

DELAY IN HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

What has become of the survey of Oakland harbor authorized by Congress in 1912? Why has it not been filed with Congress? Where is the cause of the delay—with the local officer of the Army Engineer Corps who was designated to perform the work, or with the Board of River and Harbor Engineers at Washington, D. C.?

There are several reasons for asking these questions at this time. It has been nearly four years now since the resurvey of Oakland harbor was ordered. The Chamber of Commerce adopted, Wednesday night, resolutions calling upon Congress to extend the plans for the improvement of this harbor to include the dredging of a fairway in the Key Route Basin. The City Council, yesterday, passed a resolution formally asking the assistance of Congress in the matter of improving our western waterfront.

Congress knows what this port needs and deserves in the way of federal aid. The members of the rivers and harbors committees of both branches of Congress inspected the harbor last summer and were so impressed as to assure the people of this city that the matter would be given most serious consideration during this session of Congress and aid probably extended.

Oakland, the central and most important terminal of trans-continental railways on the Pacific Coast, is held back in its logical, natural development because Congress delays action. It is being prevented, through inexcusable delay, from entering at once upon its rightful destiny of one of the greatest seaports of the world.

The members of the rivers and harbor committee severally expressed this conception of Oakland's future during their visit of inspection. Yet nothing is being done.

The plans for the improvement of Oakland harbor under an old survey contemplated the dredging of a channel thirty feet deep and five hundred feet wide from the deep water of the bay to the tidal basin, twenty-five feet deep and three hundred feet wide around the tidal basin, and eighteen feet deep through the tidal canal. This project covered what is known as the "inner harbor" and work has been carried forward as rapidly as funds therefor could be obtained.

The rivers and harbors act of 1912 contained an authorization for a new survey of Oakland harbor. It was realized by the people of this community that greater progress was necessary and to bring this about the new survey was asked for. Nearly four years have now elapsed and the new survey has not been reported to Congress. In 1913 Colonel Thomas H. Rees of the Board of Army Engineers submitted to the commercial bodies of the cities interested a tentative and somewhat comprehensive plan of development, which was unanimously and enthusiastically approved. Generally it provided for a deep channel beginning in deep water off the Oakland Estuary and extending approximately parallel to the shore front of Oakland, Emeryville, Berkeley and Richmond to deep water at Point Richmond, and for protecting this channel by a dyke and fill on the outer side parallel with the channel. This would give us deep water frontage from San Leandro Bay to Point Richmond, a distance of about nineteen miles, and the value of the reclaimed lands will go far toward defraying the expenses of the work.

The plan was an admirable one and the bay communities felt and expressed sincerest gratification over the fact that such a distinguished and able engineer as Colonel Rees had advanced it. There is no more competent man in the United States service than Colonel Rees, and it was felt that when the plans he had drawn were approved by the communities interested a long, and the final, step toward beginning construction had been accomplished.

The formal approval of the Rees plan was voted on November 19, 1913, when public officials and representatives of the commercial organizations of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Emeryville, Albany and Richmond assembled in the Hotel Oakland and unanimously passed resolutions endorsing it.

Before that, in a series of conferences, all differences of opinion that at first existed between Colonel Rees and some citizens had been cleared away. On November 19, 1913, every stated objection by official and civic bodies to the plan, which was drawn to include, as stated above, development of the western waterfront, had been withdrawn.

Federal appropriation in aid of this project depends upon the survey and the recommendations therein made by the Board of Army Engineers.

It seems that the new survey authorized by Congress in 1912 and unanimously approved by the communities of the east bay shore in November, 1913, ought to be in such shape as to receive legislative action by this time. There may have to be some modifications after the survey reaches the Board of River and Harbor Engineers, and it will then be referred back to Colonel Rees. There is a great deal to be done at best and all unnecessary delay should be avoided.

Let us of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Albany, Emeryville and Richmond inquire why the survey and report has not been sent to Washington. Colonel Rees informs us it is retained in the local office of the Board of Army Engineers.

It cannot be calmly permitted that Oakland's development be interminably held up. It has been two years, two months and eight days since the communities interested agreed in toto to Colonel Rees' tentative plans.

UNDERWOOD OPPOSES PRESIDENT.

President Wilson has increased the opposition to him within his own party in Congress by announcing that he had changed his mind regarding the desirability of a non-partisan scientific tariff commission. Senator Underwood announced yesterday that he will oppose the President's recommendation. Mr. Underwood as majority leader of the House in the Sixty-third Congress was joint author (with Senator Simmons), of the present tariff law.

Senator Underwood says he considers the commission plan, now adopted by President Wilson, as an attack upon the revenue measures which he fathered in the House two years ago—which have been inadequate for the purposes of the government. He also believes that the available machinery of the government is sufficient to gather all needed tariff information. Curiously enough, Mr. Wilson thought the same thing a few months ago. But Mr. Wilson has changed his mind, and in the face of his repudiation of the non-partisan tariff commission in existence when he assumed the presidency.

A tariff commission is the modern, scientific instrument for dealing with the question of tariff, either for protection or revenue, and Senator Underwood should not permit his quality of statesmanship to fall so low as to lead him to oppose it in principle merely because he took part in the enactment of a law without reliance upon such a commission. If the President and leader of the Democratic party can let himself approve the Republican principle of a tariff commission it ought not to go so hard with Senator Underwood.

THE TRAFFIC ORDINANCE.

The traffic officer of the Oakland police force who "tagged" a number of automobiles in front of a theater on Fourteenth street Monday night and later arrested the owners of the machines for violating the traffic ordinance prohibiting the standing of automobiles in the downtown district for longer than forty minutes in one place, probably enjoyed his work hugely. With the knowledge that during the daytime scores of violations of this ordinance are permitted, when violations really hinder general traffic and business, there doubtless was much solacing joy in hailing persons who had attended the show to police headquarters. The men responsible for this extraordinary application of the ordinance probably also feel elated.

The law is on the books and should be impartially enforced so long as it is a law. No intelligent citizen will question this fact, nor will anyone wish to make the enforcement of the ordinance by the police more difficult than necessary. But if it works out so as to prevent theater-goers from leaving their automobiles at the sidewalk while they are enjoying a theatrical performance, or attending to business, at night when the presence of the still machines work no interference with other traffic, the ordinance ought to be repealed. It is an absurd, silly proceeding, working undue hardships and serving no good purposes. It should not be sanctioned by a regularly, deliberately enacted city ordinance.

The Blue Sky law has some points that are commendable. The idea of giving attention to advertisements of corporations offering stock for sale is right enough. No corporation that is worthy could object to having its statements scanned. But also a law that enables an official body to take such close account in order to check questionable corporations is vested with great power to worry and hamper worthy corporations as to legitimate acts that they should be free to perform. There never was a law yet which differentiated. Those charged with carrying out the laws are generally left without discretion, and even if there were opportunity they, too, often lack qualification in one way and another to exercise it.

Each time "Bob" La Follette offers himself for the Senate he has to fight harder for his seat, for Wisconsin is no longer clay in his hands. This winter for the third time he is out for the honor and his chief opponent is a Republican—State Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville. Mr. Whitehead's career in the State Senate for twelve years and as chief opponent of La Follette and many of his policies has fairly familiarized him to those who follow Middle West politics. Whitehead was a member of the Yale class of 1877. He is the embodiment of personal integrity and political fearlessness.

KEEP CALLING FOR TAFT.

Few proposals of recent times touching the affairs of government have elicited such marked approbation as the suggestion that former President Taft be appointed to the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Lamar. The New York World has spoken in strong praise of the idea, and so has the Buffalo Times, published by Norman E. Mack, the former chairman of the Democratic national committee. To such testimonials is added the unqualified approbation voiced by Judge Alton B. Parker, the Democratic candidate for president in 1904, who calls Mr. Taft "the best equipped man to take this place," and says, "he should be drafted, if need be, to fill it."

STATE SAYS MOHR WED WHEN DRUNK

Rhode Island Attorney-
General Accuses
WidowSensation Is Sprung in Murder Trial at Providence

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 28.—At the resumption today of the trial of Mrs. Elizabeth Mohr and two negroes, Cecil Brown and Henry Spellman, charged with the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, Attorney General Rice renewed cross-examination of Mrs. Mohr. She admitted she knew Chief of Police Crowley of Newport and had entertained him at her home.

The alleged confession of the negro co-defendants said Mrs. Mohr told them she "stood in" with the police.

The witness said the "first serious quarrel with the doctor" occurred in February, 1902. It started, she said, when he began taking drugs and beat her.

The attorney general tried to bring out that the marriage ceremony at Lynn, Mass., was performed for the purpose of permitting Mrs. Mohr to be able to testify as the wife of the doctor in a law suit against an insurance company, but this the witness denied.

"Didn't you take Dr. Mohr to Lynn to be married while he was under the influence of liquor?"

"I did not," she said.

"Did not Dr. Mohr always say that if he ever did marry you it was while he was intoxicated?"

"No, sir; because he was not intoxicated when he was married."

Recriminations Mark Mine Workers' Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 28.—Frank J. Hayes, vice-president of the United Mine Workers, today replied in the convention to the attack made yesterday by L. Doyle of Colorado on the management of the Colorado strike. Hayes says Doyle was one of the hand-picked in the strike and declared he was indiscreet.

He gave an instance where Doyle, as secretary of the Colorado Miners, sent a telegram to international Secretary William Green to send $10,000 to buy guns.

Hayes said Doyle wanted to continue the strike when it was lost. "It is criminal to continue a strike when all hope of winning it is gone," declared the vice-president.

W. R. Furley of Alabama, an international organizer and a federal conspirator in the strike, also defended himself. He was one of those mentioned in Doyle's attack.

SHOT BEFORE HOME OF HIS SWEETHEART

Insurance Man Mysteriously Wounded in BreastPolice Investigate Very Strange Shooting on Berkeley Street

BERKELEY, Jan. 28.—Outside of the home of Albert Montijo, 2734 Ellsworth street, in the flower city that has swept Berkeley in years, there lay in wait for Salvadoro Guglielmo, a San Francisco insurance agent, an unknown enemy intent on murder, according to the story told by Guglielmo at Roosevelt Hospital this morning. A bullet wound in his right breast supports the injured man's story of an attempt at assassination.

Guglielmo left the Montijo home at 10 o'clock to take an Ellsworth street Southern Pacific train to San Francisco. He says that out of the darkness a man armed with a revolver suddenly came from the bushes and shot him. He was fired within six inches of his breast, but he could not recognize his assailant.

Bleeding from the wound he went first to the Montijo home, where he said he had been attacked. Then he went to the Alta Bates Sanitarium, where he told Miss Bates that he had been shot, but that he did not wish the police to know about it. She advised him to go to Roosevelt Hospital, refusing, as his wound was not serious, to take him in. At Roosevelt Hospital he repeated the story of the attempt at murder.

The police this morning are working on several unusual phases of the case. They point to the fact that the bullet pierced only Guglielmo's vest and underclothing and did not go through his body. They are also searching for a revolver in the neighborhood. Miss L. Montijo, who Guglielmo says has been killing for him, has just sent a paper covered with marks which he said was a warning that his life was in danger. Guglielmo this morning denied that he had such a paper, but says that on January 24 he received a letter containing such a warning, but that he later tore it up.

Guglielmo lives at 1224 Sacramento street, San Francisco. He is a special agent for the National Life Insurance Company in the Pacific building in that city. The Montijos formerly lived in San Francisco.

BANDITS WHO ROBBED BANK ARE JAILED

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Much of the $15,000 taken by five robbers from the Washington Park National Bank in a daring raid yesterday was recovered today by the police. Among thirteen persons taken into custody the authorities believe they have the five who participated in the robbery.

The police raided rooms recently rented in a West Side apartment building and arrested five men and three women. While they were breaking into the room a newsboy in the street opposite saw a pasteboard box fall at his feet.

He kicked it and ten twenty-dollar bills flew out over the sidewalk. The detective appeared with their prisoners and took charge of the box of money. Seven thousand five hundred dollars was recovered and many of the bills were identified by the cashier of the bank. Captain Hunt said that he was fairly certain the five men who robbed the bank had been captured.

Bride of One Hour Divorced by Hubby

Youthful Error Is Told to Court

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—Divorce proceedings brought by Herbert A. Roepkin against Grace Elwell Roepkin, his bride of a single hour, revealed in Judge Wood's court yesterday a remarkable story of a young woman who became engaged—how or why it did not develop by the testimony—and who went through with the marriage ceremony simply because she thought it was a duty that she must keep her promise.

In less than an hour after the marriage she left her husband and went home to her mother. According to the deposition of the mother, Mrs. Emily K. Elwell, the young bride told her that she did not love the man she had married, but that she did not intend to live with him as husband and wife when she married him, but that she had kept her word.

Grace Elwell was a stenographer at the same establishment where Roepkin was shipping clerk in New York City. He was 29 and she 19. One day the shipping clerk asked the stenographer to marry him and the spur of the moment she consented. The wedding was arranged and the two were married January 3, 1916.

After the young wife had left her husband, they saw little of each other. He insisted that they assume the relations of husband and wife and live together, promising to prepare a home for her. She refused. When Roepkin came to Los Angeles two years ago he made a final effort to induce the girl whom he had married, but who was not his wife, to come to him. She refused and their ways finally parted.

Wireless Failed

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Grave anxiety is felt regarding the British steamship Appam, which left Dakar for Plymouth January 11th with 166 passengers and 124 in the crew. When about four days out wireless communication with the vessel suddenly ceased. A dispatch from Hull to Lloyd's says that the British steamer Tregantle reports having passed at sea January 16th a lifeboat with the name Appam painted on the stern and the bow knocked away.

The Appam is many days overdue on the ten-day trip from Dakar, Senegal, West Africa, for Plymouth. A report from Lisbon recently announced that mines had been discovered in the Bay of Biscay.

The Appam was of 734 tons gross. She was owned by the British and African Steamship Navigation Company.

Receipts Light in the Oak
Markets; Some Advance
Expected.

Oranges, potatoes and onions still scarce and stiff features of the almond markets, and all three are considered firm. Almonds have been in demand having been advanced several times late supplies becoming further curtailed all of which has helped to keep prices firm. There have been some reports that there have been spring for some weeks. No of oranges have advanced in the eastern and continued rise in the western market. The result is being held at firm but quotations here have not risen yet arrivals this morning included only a few potatoes and some small quantities of onions. Some chubbi in the market was of good quality and brought $1.25 a crate. Most of the supply consisted of small and other amount of Los Angeles lettuce to be held firm. Pottery prices are letting firm with receipts. Turkey was higher than last years of the dressed variety among crates brought 27 cents a pound for down to 25 for other grades. Good.

Stockmen to Find Out Why Meat Is High

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 28.—Fifty-six thousand dollars, forming the nucleus of a $250,000 fund to finance a fight for better marketing conditions, was raised in two hours last night following the adjournment of the convocation of the American Livestock Association. A committee was appointed to endeavor to enlist the assistance of the government in an investigation of the profits of the packing industry.

The committee on marketing conditions issued a statement in which it was charged that the packing interests are in control of practically all
